The National Education Association, in coordination with national partners, NEA state and local affiliates, racial justice advocates, allies, and community activists, shall build powerful education communities and continue our work together to eradicate institutional racism in our public school system by:

1. Establishing a task force that identifies the criteria for safe, just, and equitable schools, including exploring the role of law enforcement in education.

The task force will:

- Create a clear vision for the NEA on what must be included to create safe, just, and equitable schools for all students;
- Craft an Association-wide plan in consultation with leaders of current police-free school movements, as well as successful police-free schools legislation across the country, to include developing common language, understanding historical and current student experiences, training and workshops, and opportunities to take collective action;
- Provide recommendations to amend existing policy, including the NEA School Discipline and School-to-Prison Pipeline Policy Statement (2016), NEA Resolutions, the NEA Legislative Program, and any other related documents;
- Compile current data that documents the criminalization of Native students and students of color, the disparities in appropriate staffing with mental health professionals and caring educators, and provides analysis comparing the impact of on-site or community-based programs and personnel with the use of law enforcement on campuses;
- Inform the work identified in numbers two and three.

2. Supporting and leading campaigns that:

- Advocate for just funding formulas that remedy pervasive resource disparities based upon race, income, and geographic wealth patterns, and advocate for no-cost higher education;
- Reallocate funding to provide students with school-based, non-privatized, non-outsourced services to meet their social-emotional and mental health needs by;
 - Achieving robust staffing levels, including appropriate class sizes, access to electives, art, librarians, ESPs, and appropriate Higher Education staffing levels;
 - Training specific school personnel to be full-time restorative practice coordinators and providing all school employees with professional development around cultural responsiveness, implicit bias, anti-racism, trauma-informed practices, restorative justice practices and other racial justice trainings;
 - Training educators to lead on equity and racial justice, leveraging the Leaders for Just Schools curriculum and model;
 - Hiring school-based mental health providers trained to provide culturally appropriate services, such as school counselors, nurses, social workers, drug and alcohol counselors and psychologists, and utilizing trauma-informed, restorative justice practices, meditation/peace centers, and other proven methods to address student health and well being.
- Eliminate the school-to-prison and school-to-deportation pipeline;
- Win transformative investments for racially just schools that include addressing the academic, social, and emotional needs of every student through their entire educational journey, including non-biased access to pre-K and post-high school opportunities;
- Seek remedy to economic justice issues including, but not limited to, affordable housing, housing insecurity, food insecurity, and access to health care and childcare;
- Achieve dramatic funding increases for proven programs such as services for low-income students under Title I and students with disabilities under the Individuals with Disabilities in Education Act (IDEA);
- Result in greater numbers of Native educators and educators of color in the education profession(s) and the union; specifically in high-quality, full-time, professional or tenure-track positions;
- Result in increased investment to expand community schools leveraging the NEA Community Schools Model;
- Result in increasing the implementation of culturally responsive education, critical race theory, and ethnic (Native people, Asian, Black, Latin(o/a/x), Middle Eastern, North African, and Pacific Islander) Studies curriculum in pre- K-12 and higher education;
- Eradicate racist laws, policies, and practices, the over-criminalization of communities, students, and families of Native people and people of color, as well as the criminalization of poverty.

3. Engaging and empowering students, families, community members and other key stakeholders in the decision-making process in their schools, districts, higher education institutions, and communities.

To this end, NEA will:

- Expand the development of trauma-informed schools and the implementation of trauma-informed practices in education communities to support learning, social and emotional wellbeing, and inclusive educational environments;
- Leverage Bargaining for the Common Good to engage broad stakeholder groups to win on transforming education communities;
- Provide technical assistance to expand state and local affiliate education community partnerships to deliver professional development and training curriculum targeted to education employees charged with creating affirming accountability practices and supportive climates by;
 - Expanding the implementation of training in age-appropriate responses and interventions, cultural responsiveness and culturally relevant pedagogy, implicit bias, anti-racism, trauma-informed practices, restorative justice practices and other racial justice training.

Rationale/Background

Policymakers deny schools resources and opportunities, blame problems they create on students of color, and use police in place of nurses, counselors, supportive services, and enrichment programs proven to make schools places where students can thrive and truly be safe.

NEA shall use its public-facing websites, including educationvotes.nea.org, to publicly promote and affirm its commitment to access voting and that state legislatures should not implement policies that overturn the will of the voters.

Additionally, NEA will partner with external organizations in a public-facing national campaign to educate the public about voting that includes state-based lobbying language to condemn all efforts to limit the rights of voters to have full access to the ballot box.

Rationale/Background

Voting rights and democracy are under serious attack, and the center of the attack has become Georgia, where right wing politicians are doing everything they can to keep Georgians, especially Black and Brown ones, from exercising their right to vote.

NEA will research the organizations attacking educators doing anti-racist work and/or use the research already done and put together a list of resources and recommendations for state affiliates, locals, and individual educators to utilize when they are attacked. The research, resources, and recommendations will be shared with members through NEA's social media, an article in NEA Today, and a recorded virtual presentation/webinar.

Rationale/Background

The attacks on anti-racist teachers are increasing, coordinated by well-funded organizations such as the Heritage Foundation. We need to be better prepared to respond to these attacks so that our members can continue this important work.

NEA will provide support to state affiliates in establishing and implementing a process to collect and distribute funds earmarked to pay educators who do volunteer anti-racist work (including, but not limited to, work such as participating in book studies, workshops, or presentations; supporting Black, Indigenous and People of Color [BIPOC] students in schools; or any other union work requiring a racial lens that comes from their lived experience and expertise). This NEA support would include creating a simple application template that statewide unions could adapt for educators to fill out to be paid for their labor. NEA would make sure this template is simple so they don't create significantly more work for people who are applying for funds. State affiliates will make comprehensive efforts to reach a goal that at least fifty percent (50%) of applications submitted are from BIPOC educators, but may continue with implementation even if that goal is not met. State affiliates will collect and make available this racially aggregated data. They could also encourage members to make a donation of $25 or more or make monthly contributions in order to offset the cost of credit card fees.

NBI has been modified by its mover.

Rationale/Background

Many BIPOC educators use their lived experience of oppression and trauma to do anti-racist work. In addition, systemic racism often can have a negative financial impact on BIPOC educators. Unpaid anti-racist work exacerbates this impact.

NEA will go beyond Land Acknowledgement to explore the concept of "Land Back." NEA will recruit a committee of 10-12 Indigenous members that will reach out to federally recognized tribes for their recommendations about reparations. NEA will report the findings and recommendations to all delegates electronically one month before the 2022 deadline for delegate submissions for the NEA Legislative Program, Resolutions, Policy Statements, Constitution, Bylaws, and Rules, and give a brief oral report at the beginning of the 2022 Representative Assembly right after the Land Acknowledgement is read.

Rationale/Background

The United States broke its own law by seizing Native land, violating the Supremacy Clause in Article VI of the U.S. Constitution, which states that federal law is superior to laws passed by state legislatures. Land Back is restorative justice.

The NEA will use existing materials to educate its state and local affiliates and members about the dangers of anti-transgender legislation targeting transgender youth in sports and/or restricting their access to gender-affirming health care. Resources should describe the current legal landscape at the federal and state levels, include model language from partner organizations on ways to support modifications to existing laws that prevent such discriminatory applications, provide talking points for advocacy, and link to existing resources for members and state affiliates to use in efforts to prevent the use of such laws as a license to discriminate.

NBI has been modified by its mover.

Rationale/Background

NEA has a vested interest in protecting all students in public schools, including transgender youth. All students deserve affirming spaces in which to learn and thrive. These types of legislation are designed to exclude directly transgender youth from participating in schools.

NEA will arrange a meeting between leaders who work in the field of pre-K-21 special education and who are actively involved in special education committee work or work with the Council for Exceptional Children, and Education Secretary Miguel Cardona and/or the Department of Education to talk about the meaning of least restrictive environment (LRE) as it pertains to the field of special education and appropriate models of inclusion. Furthermore, NEA will advocate and promote the acceptance of the idea that the LRE supports students with Individualized Education Programs (IEPs) to make progress on their IEP goals and should be determined based on the student's individual strengths, needs, preferences, and interests, and is often not the environment provided in a full inclusion model. This advocacy shall also include promoting the list of recognized needs for proper implementation of federal special education legislation from statement B-34 of the Resolutions Document.

Rationale/Background

Some districts are pushing for a "full inclusion" model for all students with disabilities. Students are then in regular education the entire school day, even if this is harmful to them or fails to comply with IDEA's Free Appropriate Public Education (FAPE) provision.

NEA will communicate with its members via email and give them an easy option to request to have physical mail from NEA converted into paperless formats of communication. In addition, NEA will respect members' choices not to receive any physical mail from NEA and stop sending it to the greatest extent possible as allowed by NEA Bylaws and policies. The paperless option also would include the option to request to stop NEA-sponsored offers NEA members get through the mail to the greatest extent possible according to our Bylaws and policies. The communication about options may include tiered options for members, such as: 1. request not to receive paper-sponsored mail; 2. request all informational mail that does not require member action/response to be sent in digital formats only; and 3. request all physical mail to be converted to digital formats to the greatest extent allowed by NEA Bylaws and regulations.

Rationale/Background

Education associations should be leading the way in protecting the environment. This is one action step that we can take that will help to do that. It will also respect members' choices, help retention, and should save NEA money.

Rationale/Background

This will increase opportunities for collaboration between state associations and empower, inspire, and facilitate better member communication. We will learn a lot from this. For example, how many states have Special Education Committees? What are they working on?

NEA will conduct research and publish an article about alternative pathways to graduation for students who experience moderate-to-severe impacts as a result of their exceptionalities and who are in self-contained programs or special education classes for twenty-five percent (25%) or more of their school day. NEA will post this article on online platforms, publish in the NEA Today, and send it to all state affiliates to disseminate to their members. In addition, NEA will advocate for the creation of pathways to graduation for students who experience moderate-to-severe impacts from their exceptionalities by helping to set up meetings about this between its member leaders in the field of special education and the U.S. education secretary and/or the U.S. Department of Education and will support this effort in practical ways.

Rationale/Background

Students who cannot sit in regular education classes for the majority of the school day deserve meaningful paths to graduation. All children can learn. Students who experience exceptionalities work hard and often learn meaningful things. Other students do not.

NEA will form and lead a committee of 12-15 people that includes members from some of the other larger national unions in the country to discuss and address the issues of police unions. The committee will ensure that racial justice is always centered in its discussions and that efforts are made to distinguish between police unions and the rest of the labor movement. The committee will make recommendations to the labor movement on what role we should play in putting an end to police unions' ability to protect violent cops, harmful policing practices, and racist policies that too often lead to the terrorizing and deaths of our students and their family members. These recommendations will be shared via email to state affiliates and via posting on the appropriate NEA website one month before submissions are due for the 2022 NEA Representative Assembly.

Rationale/Background

Contrary to some labor leaders who are unwilling to differentiate between police unions and other unions, there is a clear distinction. No other union represents members who can terrorize, brutalize, or take the life of another person with almost complete impunity.

- assist locals to form their own Health and Safety Committees;
- keep records and collect data on health and safety concerns and violations to Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) and state laws in public schools;
- assist with organizing efforts to lobby legislators and secure safe and healthy working conditions in members' workplaces;
- publicize unsafe conditions in the schools to their communities and to decision-makers;
- collaborate with other unions to organize, build power, and advocate for safe and healthy working conditions;

and/or other endeavors to create and maintain safe working conditions for students and education employees. The above are examples of activities to include in such a grant.

NBI has been modified by its mover.

Rationale/Background

Coming out of a global pandemic, NOW is the time for NEA to provide support to local and state affiliates to dedicate resources to and focus on effectively advocating for safe and healthy schools for our children and education employees.

The NEA will encourage school districts, using existing publications, to refocus their budgets to prioritize community policing. The emphasis should include using mental health professionals, addiction counselors, and social workers. There should also be a priority on additional training for school resource officers (SROs) towards the de-escalation of situations involving all students.

Rationale/Background

Minority students are disproportionately adversely affected by the action of school district SROs. They are more likely to be suspended or put into juvenile justice systems over these encounters. Community policing would allow encounters to address the cause rather than punish.

The NEA will, with guidance on implementation from the NEA president and chairs of the Ethnic Minority Affairs Caucuses:

A. Share and publicize, through existing channels, information already available on critical race theory (CRT) -- what it is and what it is not; have a team of staffers for members who want to learn more and fight back against anti-CRT rhetoric; and share information with other NEA members as well as their community members.

B. Provide an already-created, in-depth, study that critiques empire, white supremacy, anti-Blackness, anti-Indigeneity, racism, patriarchy, cisheteropatriarchy, capitalism, ableism, anthropocentrism, and other forms of power and oppression at the intersections of our society, and that we oppose attempts to ban critical race theory and/or The 1619 Project.

C. Publicly (through existing media) convey its support for the accurate and honest teaching of social studies topics, including truthful and age-appropriate accountings of unpleasant aspects of American history, such as slavery, and the oppression and discrimination of Indigenous, Black, Brown, and other peoples of color, as well as the continued impact this history has on our current society. The Association will further convey that in teaching these topics, it is reasonable and appropriate for curriculum to be informed by academic frameworks for understanding and interpreting the impact of the past on current society, including critical race theory.

D. Join with Black Lives Matter at School and the Zinn Education Project to call for a rally this year on October 14—George Floyd's birthday—as a national day of action to teach lessons about structural racism and oppression. Followed by one day of action that recognize and honor lives taken such as Breonna Taylor, Philando Castile, and others. The National Education Association shall publicize these National Days of Action to all its members, including in NEA Today.

E. Conduct a virtual listening tour that will educate members on the tools and resources needed to defend honesty in education including but not limited to tools like CRT.

F. Commit President Becky Pringle to make public statements across all lines of media that support racial honesty in education including but not limited to critical race theory.

NBI has been modified by its mover.

Rationale/Background

USA's economy/social order is built on interactions between different cultures/races. To deny opportunities to teach truth about Black, Brown, and other marginalized races minimalizes the necessity for students to build efficacy. The ancient African proverb says, "Know Thyself."

The NEA will convene a task force to collect and analyze data and metrics about environmental pollution and its impact on America's students and educational communities. This report will be presented to the NEA Board of Directors and used to deliberate about the creation of a research-based NEA policy statement on environmental equity.

Data collection will include, but is not limited to, the following:

1. Data outlining the impact of environmental pollution on students in impoverished communities and/or Indigenous communities of color.
2. Data outlining the long-term health conditions suffered by communities impacted by environmental pollution (i.e., Flint, Michigan).
3. Data outlining the dollars spent on special education programs and supports for students who have been impacted as a result of environmental pollution.
4. A comparative analysis of impacted communities and neighboring non-impacted affluent communities in the same geographic region.

Rationale/Background

The NEA does not currently have a policy statement regarding environmental equity and pollution. This NBI seeks to create a pathway for its creation and provide research-based statistical data to participate in national discussions regarding environmental equity.

- establishing contacts with relevant federal agencies (especially Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA), National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health (NIOSH), Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC));
- maintaining relationships with key allies, such as 21st Century Foundation, American Public Health Association (APHA), and other environmental organizations;
- coordinating within NEA to monitor, lobby, and advocate for federal legislative and regulatory policy;
- crafting model legislative and regulatory policies for state affiliates;
- organizing and supporting effective district-wide and school health and safety committees;
- assisting state affiliates and union locals to evaluate and resolve health and safety problems;
- assisting with or conducting education and training programs for state affiliates, union locals, and health and safety representatives, committees, officers, and staff;
- participating in legal cases involving health and safety to assist state affiliates and union locals;
- advocating for better health, safety, and environmental regulations, standards, and laws to protect our members, students, the public and our communities;
- assisting as needed with negotiations to strengthen health and safety language in collective bargaining agreements;
- assisting with health and safety issues associated with organizing new union locals.

This budget proposal will be presented to the NEA Strategic Planning and Budget Committee for consideration and a report will be made to the 2022 NEA Representative Assembly.

NEA shall use existing resources to advocate that charter schools adhere to the same stringent environmental requirements followed by traditional public schools prior to building any new campus to avoid a charter school from being built on toxic grounds. This includes proper review of potential land and thorough clean-up involving a state environmental agency. No charter school should be allowed building plans without approval by said state agency. Lastly, no charter school shall be allowed for their building plans to fall under a waiver or ministerial project (exemption). All building projects involving charter schools must adhere to strict building codes overseen by a public agency that will look out for the best interests of students, staff, and community members. This is for the purpose of preventing charter schools from being built on toxic sites.

NEA will:

- Build coalitions and partnerships with organizations to demand contractual protections for working mothers and parents;
- Draft model contract language to build access to worksite childcare for infant, toddler, and pre-kindergarten children and flexibility for workplaces that enables working caregivers to meet their family's needs that adequately meet the financial and developmental needs of our community's youngest members;
- Demand employer-sponsored childcare and subsidized discount agreements with local non-profit and home-based providers;
- Build coalitions with the child care provider industry like the Child Care Providers Union to support a fair and living wage for child care providers;
- Develop a comprehensive plan to provide a pathway to continue with existing programs into early education centers and transitional kindergarten programs;
- Publish articles through its appropriate media properties about how NEA is elevating the demand to improve work conditions that support working families by providing convenient, reliable, and high-quality worksite childcare;
- Publish articles detailing the cost savings related to onsite childcare; and how it can be used to build capacity within the educator pipeline to recruit and retain talent for the education field that may want to start a family or plan one in the future; foster lower absenteeism; help mothers return to work after maternity leave; reduce turnover; create good morale; and offer emotional security for parents;
- Push out culturally relevant message as outreach with the above-mentioned topics out to community-run news outlets, ethnic media outlets in most common languages spoken at homes: Spanish, Mandarin, Cantonese, Tagalog, Vietnamese, Arabic, French, Korean, Russian, German, Haitian Creole, Hindi, and Portuguese when possible in sound and print. When possible, use contracted services of women-owned small businesses and minority-owned businesses for in-language communications, interpretation, and translation services;
- Have an email and/or develop a hashtag to collect the progress stories and data points across the nation to continue the momentum to make worksite childcare a reality.

Rationale/Background

NEA recognizes working families face financial hardships from the pandemic. Women dominate seventy-six percent (76%) of the educators, and working parents make up forty-to-fifty percent (40-50%) nationwide. Provide access to onsite childcare, so they don't have to choose between work and family.

NEA shall research (and report back before the next RA) the impact of the "reasonable assurance" standard on state laws (in particular, in Washington and more recently in New Jersey), as well as how recent incremental shifts in interpretation of the standard by the U.S. Department of Labor (2016, 2020) have affected implementation of the "reasonable assurance" standard at the state level.

Rationale/Background

We do not know the effect of contingent workers receiving unemployment in higher education. This research is important for us to better serve our NEA Higher Education members, along with our state and locals affiliates.

The NEA will educate its members, using existing electronic media, about the positive effects that having a tax-supported, single-payer health care plan for all residents of the United States, its territories, and the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico would have on reducing the U.S. health care gap.

Rationale/Background

The health care gap has widened during the pandemic and disproportionately discriminates against minority/indigenous populations. The current White House Administration does not support this policy. Education of our members is very important to counter the pharmaceutical and insurance industries propaganda.
